Description

The equip® 125451 solves the challenge of providing reliable, protected network connection points in outdoor and harsh environments where standard indoor surface mount boxes fail. Its weather-resistant housing safeguards installed keystone modules from moisture, dust, and environmental exposure, making it the ideal solution for building exteriors, outdoor surveillance systems, industrial areas, and outdoor wireless access point installations.

Featuring two standard keystone ports with support for cable diameters from 5 to 10 mm, the 125451 accommodates RJ45 network jacks, fiber adapters, or multimedia connectors — enabling fully customized dual-port connectivity for any outdoor structured cabling application. The practical hinged lid with integrated labeling field keeps connections organized and clearly identified in the field.

Rated to IP44 protection, the 125451 delivers a robust, impact-resistant enclosure measuring 77 × 86 × 58 mm with a secure sealing structure that maintains stable signal performance in demanding outdoor environments. Keystone modules are not included, allowing installers to configure each port independently based on project requirements.
