

RollerMouse Red plus WL Travel Kit

The mobile workstation

Fortunately, we are all used to a certain level of quality when it comes to our working environment and office ergonomics. However, such standards are not always maintained when we work from home or “hot desk”, despite the fact that we are all doing so more often these days. Many people are unaware that there are in fact just as many regulations and guidelines about mobile workstations as there are about “fixed” office ergonomics – if you work away from the office at least one day a week, that is. Therefore, it is very important not to just rely on your laptop when working away from the office.

Both mobile and ergonomic

If you are one of the many who often change where you work, but think the idea of taking your ergonomics home with you sounds unworkable, read on. Carrying an ergonomic workstation around with you doesn't need to be cumbersome or difficult.

Simple and efficient

With a RollerMouse Travel Kit, it's easy to ensure an ergonomically correct working position wherever you are. You can pack it up and carry it under your arm. It's easy to unpack and reconnect it at your next stop.

An optimised workstation

The RollerMouse Travel Kit is just the thing if you want to prioritise having the correct equipment, no matter where you are working that day. It can help you to achieve variation and improved efficiency by preventing pain and strain caused by a traditional mouse.
