Iris USB Webcam - A09

- COMPATIBLE WITH USB-A & USB-C

1080p Video with AI Powered Autofocus

Grainy or poorly-lit video calls, conferences and streams can be distracting. Worse still, they can look unprofessional. ALOGIC built a CMOS sensor into its Iris Webcam so the camera constantly tracks and focuses on the user and subjects in shot. The metallic-finished camera has the smarts to focus on your movement and quickly adjust its video for high resolution recording. This is a big benefit when you use Iris-compatible video conferencing software such as Zoom, Messenger, Skype, or Teams.

A Webcam for Privacy-Conscious Professionals at Home

Privacy cover prevents potential intruders viewing video through the webcam

For privacy-conscious camera users, the Iris Webcam features a privacy filter that's been purpose-built to complement the device's overall design. The privacy cover enables camera users to control what the Iris captures at any time and prevents potential intruders viewing video through the webcam.

Clear Audio with Noise Cancelling Mics

Two in-built stereo microphones

Stunt the awkward pauses and disruptions that can dampen video calls. The Iris's two in-built stereo microphones that capture the right natural sounds and dimmish distractive noise. This is a great help for professional meetings and for playback quality of content such as webinars, vlogs and explainer videos.
